

BRITISH CONSTRUCTION INDUSTRY BUILDING AWARD 2002

HONDA'S NEW EUROPEAN PLANT, SWINDON, ENGLAND

Vanbots has been awarded this prestigious award by the British Construction Industry for 2002. Vanbots is the only Canadian construction company to ever achieve this honour.

The standard of projects measured against BCI Awards' exacting criteria of procurement, design and delivery was extremely high. Overall excellence is at the heart of the rigorous judging process employed in the Awards which each year assembles a judging panel of leading clients, designers, contractors and industry commentators to choose the winning projects. Consideration is given to the entire construction process from initial conception to final commissioning.

Honda's New European Plant, located in Swindon, required a standard of precision in its design and construction that related more to car manufacturing rather than construction. This project was allowed a 21 month timeframe from the start of construction to first production of cars.
